The highways are listed in a Counterclockwise order beginning at the Illinois Route 1A concurrency with Interstate 630 south of Hot Springs, Arkansas. County Roads State Routes Future Conflicting Numbered Highways The Arkansas Highway and Transportation Department (AHTD) maintains two lists of highways that are marked as Conflicting Numbered Highways in Arkansas. The list of Routed Highways includes all highways and streets that have been marked as Routed Highways. The list of Highways is maintained by the AHTD, and is a list of major Arkansas highways and streets, as well as the alternate routes of these highways. The "highways" list does not include county roads, state highways, U.S. highways, or other numbered highways. AHTD also maintains a list of "Alternate State Highway" that supplements the highways list with alternate routes of Arkansas highways. I have a task that is very CPU and network intensive (and also needs to be run a second time at some points - see my answer to my own question). Obviously, it's a good idea to run such a task in a child process, so that when the parent dies, the child isn't left sitting there with a deadlock. Unfortunately, the task is set up to be run in a method within a class that is made available to all my other classes (so I can't just have a self.foo.go_fork
