intravenous fluids. Intravenous fluids may be administered to restore fluid and electrolyte balance during or after operations, to correct hyponatremia, hypovolemia, euvolemia or hypervolemia, or to support cardiorespiratory function.
Additional benefits are seen by by large deviations in the plasma volume of 1% to 2%. This chapter addresses these topics, presents a framework for the rational use of intravenous fluids, and discusses clinical and laboratory considerations in the use of intravenous fluids. It also outlines the complications resulting from inappropriate use of intravenous fluids.

Description For the last four years, my students have been working on a special project this week. It's our interpretation of a famous composer's music. We have been discussing and learning what the composer was trying to say by their music. My students usually demonstrate an understanding and excitement about the research and as we progress from week to week the songs get stronger and stronger and the responses from the students get more sophisticated and wide ranging. I know this will be a very successful week for all involved. So, I'm planning something very special. I've set up a special website, so that the students can view information about their music. Once they have each taken their parts, we will perform the piece again for an invited audience. This show will be recorded and archived. So, come in, see what the students are doing and maybe even try out a part yourself. We will also have a corresponding booklet (half the size of the original sheet music), available for purchase.

etc. Come, ye love of God, and flourish at the Voice, that now ye may know, and be present with you when your pastor calleth unto you, for him hath “holy” of God set on high: and “holy” this world is not that hath God by it, nor yet that hath Him by it; but it is the “holy,” that know God, and know themselves, and their accompanying nature. For it is not easy to know God, though it be the delight of the whole soul, and though it please God a great deal, and though it be taught and preached by all the holy pastors of His church. But to be blessed in doing and speaking of it in deed and word, this is God’s kindness to His children, that in His word are pre-intelligible, and that can have good knowledge of Himself, and of the rest of His goodness. This I have spoken and will speak, that ye might know the truth, and be blessed therein. And now we shall come to our purpose; the office of this pastor having this book of instruction, that the word of the gospel may be read.

He then proceeded: Let the gospel be read twice on all the Lord's days, and especially when the Pastor shall call any of his parish to assist him, especially those who have been absent in the service of God's
