Q: gimp 2.8/3.0 complains about my version I try to install GIMP 2.8.14 on my Ubuntu 14.04 with the following command: sudo apt-get update sudo apt-get install gimp But it fails with the following error message: sudo apt-get install gimp Reading package lists... Done Building dependency tree Reading state information... Done E: Unable to locate package gimp Does anyone have a solution to my problem? I can't use GIMP 3.0.11 as I need to use the command line for scripting. I use the GIMP-Python add-in and it needs GIMP 2.8.14 as it has been written in the documentation. A: sudo apt-get install gimp-data Many commercial establishments use perishable items in their business and rely on refrigeration units to maintain the items at a desired temperature. Refrigeration units for small or residential commercial applications have been traditionally designed with forced-air forced-air cooling systems. These refrigeration units typically include a chiller unit containing a compressor, an expansion valve, a heat-exchanger, and fan-coil units that move air over the heat exchanger to facilitate cooling of the unit. One of the drawbacks with forced-air cooling systems is that they are typically only able to cool items within a relatively small area. Alternative cooling systems have been developed for cooling areas having a size that is larger than that of forced-air
