You choose two balls from the first box and then four more balls from the second box to get a total of ten balls. What is the best way to do it? I first used generation method like this Which we know the answer is 32 ways But the interviewer told me to use brute force in order to get the answer So is there any better way to get the answer or an infinite way can be used? A: Generating all the possibilities will yield  $4^4$ . The interviewer likely thought that since  $4^4$  can be broken down into  $2^4$  and  $2^4$  can be broken down into  $1^4$  by the binomial theorem and thus, just taking one box is equivalent to not taking a box. Because  $10^4$  is a multiple of  $2^4$ , the interviewer thinks that there are the same number of arrangements where you take one box as where you don't take one box. Note that this is false. Even assuming that  $4^4$  can be broken down into  $2^4$  and  $2^4$  can be broken down into  $1^4$  is false; the arrangement
